Storms Again Batter Western States

Ice, Snow Blanket Highways

South Basks; West Shivers

(By Associated Press)

Weather's wintry elements unleashed further damaging blows to storm-weary states over most of the western half of the nation today.

Snow, ice and sleet storms hit an area from the Texas-Oklahoma panhandle to the Pacific coast.

California shivered again in freezing temperatures. There was snow and ice from the state's winter resort spots to the mountains. Many highways were closed because of ice and snow. The fruit and vegetable crop was further endangered by the wintry blasts. The freezing weather followed last week's killing frost which caused millions of dollars of damage to crops.

The Rocky Mountain region and parts of the midwest got another blast of sub-zero temperatures. Cold weather in the Pacific northwest threatened a severe power shortage.

While wintry's icy blasts dealt severe blows to the West, Dixieland was basking in summertime temperatures. The mercury shot up into the 70's and 80's yesterday from Louisiana to the Atlantic seaboard and from Florida to east Tennessee and most of Virginia.

The freezing rain and sleet covered an extensive area of the central and southern plains as far eastward as Iowa, Missouri and western Illinois.

Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and part of northern Texas got the worst of the storm. Many communities were blacked out as heavy ice-coated power lines snapped. Some schools were closed. Travel over the glazed highways was at a slow pace. Fallen trees on highways added to the hazards of driving.

In California highway crews worked through the night sanding icy roads and clearing snow. Only one main highway out of Los Angeles, Coast Route 101 to San Francisco and San Diego, was free of ice.

24 BELOW ZERO

The mercury slid to freezing and below in many parts of California again today. Snow fell in Burbank and for the second straight night there were flurries in Los Angeles. There was a blanket of white in many San Fernando valley and foothill communities.

Sub-zero blasts chilled areas in Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wyoming, Colorado and Idaho. The mercury dropped to -24 at Havre, Mont.; -19 at Pembina, N. D.; -16 at International Falls, Minn.; -8 at Cheyenne, Wyo.; -6 at Pocatello, Ida., and 14 at Denver. It was zero at Burns, Ore., and Amarillo, Tex., reported 12 above.

Tinton, S. D., snowbound community in the Black Hills, was reported short on food. Volunteers pulling toboggans were to start to take supplies to the town of 35 population after planes failed to land.

Auto Industry Faces Layoffs

DETROIT. — (INS) — Widescale unemployment in the massive automotive industry was feared today in the wake of announced production cutbacks by two major automobile producers.

Kaiser-Frazer and the Lincoln-Mercury division of the Ford Motor company were the first to state they were curtailing their daily output. Nearly 5,000 workers were faced with indefinite layoffs by the K-F and Lincoln-Mercury announcements.

BULLETIN

TEL AVIV —(UP)— Premier David Ben Gurion cabled an Israeli representative at Lake Success tonight to request an urgent meeting of the United Nations Security Council to receive an Israeli complaint against alleged British air action over Palestine.

Police Solve Case of the Missing Ham

WASHINGTON — (INS) — District of Columbia police announced today that "the case of Vice President-elect Barkley's ham and Sen. Bridges' shoes," has been solved.

The solution, according to Lieut. Mike Dowd, was accomplished at 4:30 a. m. in the shadowy corridors of the Senate office building, when he nabbed William Dudley, 36, janitor, on suspicion of engineering a long series of petty thefts.

Top Chinese Flee Before Red Advance

Formosa Seen New Stronghold

NANKING —(AP)— Government officials stepped up their flight from Nanking today as communist armies launched new assaults.

Red troops were reported crushing trapped government armies on the northern approaches to Nanking. Government airmen called it the "heaviest fighting we have seen at any time in China."

Farther north, Red troops were reported fighting the government garrison in the suburbs of Tientsin.

The National Broadcasting company reported from Shanghai today that a cease fire agreement has been reached in Tientsin, China's second largest industrial city, which communist troops have surrounded for several weeks.)

Little more than a symbol of the nationalist government remains in Nanking. Officials, archives and equipment are flowing out of the capital at a fast pace.

Thousands of officials and employes have left. Many have moved south to set up emergency branches of their ministries out of reach of Red armies. Others have fled to their native homes where they hope to find obscurity.

Technically all ministries are still in Nanking. That's because the great seals with which all official papers must be stamped are still here. But actually, few government functions continue, except the most urgent.

One official estimated more than half the national government's personnel has disappeared from Nanking. The Ministry of Health will move en mass tomorrow to Canton in southern China.

Canton and Formosa (Taiwan) are favorite refuges of government officials. As many as 50,000 Chinese a week are reported arriving on Formosa, which some say Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek may turn into an island fortress.

Equipment and key personnel of four government-owned factories have been loaded aboard a steamship for transfer to Formosa.

Names 3 In Rape-Killing

AGANA, GUAM. — (UP) — Military authorities said today that a suspect in the rape-murder of Ruth Farnsworth, had named three servicemen as the killers of the pretty-27-year-old navy civilian employe.

The suspect told military authorities that the three had beaten Miss Farnsworth unconscious in the trinket shop where she worked and then carried her into a nearby jungle, where she was found unconscious 24 hours later.

One engaged her in a discussion on curios, authorities quoted the suspect, while his two companions remained outside.

On a signal from inside the shop the wires from a generator supplying the shop with electricity were ripped out. Then the girl was beaten unconscious in the dark and carried into the jungle, the suspect said.

Highway Patrol Picks Up Hiker

The second of four Mansfield reformatory fugitives, who escaped the farm dormitory Sunday night, was captured last night while hitchhiking on Route 23, a few miles north of Circleville.

Mike Hall, 29, of Hamilton county, was apprehended by state highway patrolmen who intensified their search today for the remaining members of the quartet which broke out a basement window in the dormitory to escape.

Still at large are Delmar Weaver, 21, of Pickaway county, and Carl Daniels, 21, of Stark county.

Emerson Cain, 21, of Pickaway county, was caught by Delaware police late Sunday as he attempted to hide his identity by mingling with a group of Ohio Wesleyan university students on the street.

A car, reported stolen from Mansfield Sunday night, and later found parked and abandoned on a Delaware street, is believed to have aided the escape of the four men. Their trail was picked up Sunday night when a Waldo service station attendant notified state highway patrolmen that four men had ordered gas and then left without paying for it.

Name Fair Manager

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio's new state fair manager will be Howard S. Foust, 56, Madison county farmer and fair man. A. W. Marion, new director of agriculture, accepted the resignation of Edwin J. Bath, fair manager under Gov. Thomas J. Herbert.

On the Job Early

Hand Sore, Lausche Takes State Reins

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche took over active control of the Ohio government today for the second time in his career with a promise for social progress without additional taxation.

Despite the day-long inauguration grind yesterday, the repeat governor was on the job early, in accordance with custom established during his first term as chief executive.

Lausche said that other than a sore hand, the result of a reception that followed the inauguration yesterday, he was in top shape and ready to cope with the problems facing him.

He declined to say when his first message to the General Assembly would be ready.

It was believed, however, that his recommendations for legislative action to the 98th General Assembly would be ready some time next week.

All members of the cabinet were on hand, awaiting orders and a go-ahead on the administration's program for the next two years.

Lausche wound up his activities yesterday with a press and radio smoker and an inaugural ball sponsored by the Young Democrat Clubs of Ohio.

Col. George Mingle, commandant of the state highway patrol, estimated that some 4,000 persons braved the steady downpour yesterday to witness the inauguration. About 3,000 persons passed through the executive chambers after the ceremonies to personally wish the new governor success.

Veteran observers said the inclement weather probably was the worst for inauguration day in 20 years. They compared it to the inauguration of Myers Y. Cooper, when the thermometer dipped below zero on the State House lawn.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy was the first to take office, followed by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, State Treasurer Don Ebright, the lone Republican in the official family, Secretary of State Charles F. Sweeney, and Lt. Gov. George D. Nye.

Those who took their oath of office in the executive chambers after the inauguration were: Agriculture Director A. W. Marion, Commerce Director Robert Moulton, Finance Director H. D. Defenbacher, Highway Director Theodore J. Kauer, Industrial Relations Director Albert A. Woldman, Liquor Director Oscar L. Fleckner, Welfare Director John H. Lamneck, and Adjutant General Leo J. Kreber.

Three other members of the cabinet—Education Director Clyde Hissong, Health Director John D. Porterfield, and Public Works Director George B. Sowers—are holdovers from the previous administrations because of constitutional or statutory reasons.

Mansfielders At Inaugural

Play Key Role In Governor's Welcome

By OLIVE GRESMER

COLUMBUS—Scores of Mansfielders participated in the second split-term inauguration of a Democratic governor yesterday.

Frank J. Lausche, returning for a second term as Ohio's governor, was sworn in as the state's chief executive on the capitol steps as an estimated 4,000 well-wishers braved a drizzling rain to watch the ceremonies.

At least 50 Mansfielders participated in the inaugural from start to finish, following the former Cleveland lamplighter and his lady from statehouse to hotel to executive mansion.

Well to the foreground was Mrs. George Davis, 17th district committeewoman, who sparked the Richland county Lausche campaign right up to the inauguration.

Despite the strength of Cuyahoga, Mahoning and Trumbull counties, which gave Lausche a big vote, Richland county took a back seat for no one at the inauguration ceremonies.

Both at the governor's mansion and the Democratic headquarters

Body Found Under Floor

GREENFIELD, — (AP) — Authorities today sought additional clues in the slaying of an elderly farmer whose crushed body was found beneath the floor of his cabin near here.

Sheriff S. F. Gustin found the bullet pierced body of Grant Nichols, 72, a widower who lived alone in the small house near Carmel, 20 miles south of Greenfield.

Coroner J. M. Byers said Nichols "apparently died of shotgun wounds in the left chest." "He appeared to have been dragged from the scene of the murder and placed under the floor four or five days ago," the coroner added.

Byers said Nichols was reported to have had $400 with him, but only a few cents were found by authorities.

Boy Unmasks Tavern Robber

CLEVELAND (INS) — a 12-year-old Cleveland boy knows today that masked gunmen are not jokers.

The boy, Clifford Sarneki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sarneki, who operates the cocktail bar, pulled the mask off one of two gunmen in the kitchen of the tavern.

Later, he explained: "I thought it was a joke." He learned it wasn't when the gunmen took $194.

City Bus Patrons Get 'Lost'

A lot of Mansfielders got "lost" yesterday on their way to work. They boarded the wrong buses and got off at the wrong places.

It all happened after the city bus schedules and routes were changed. Bus officials said, everything considered, it wasn't such a bad start. Things were going much smoother today.

The changes were made Sunday, but the full impact wasn't felt until yesterday when workers started to offices and factories.

C. M. Ross, superintendent of Mansfield Rapid Transit, Inc., said there was a "certain amount of confusion yesterday, both on the part of patrons and drivers." However, he said the company had expected some confusion, and patrons today were having little difficulty.

Ross said the company had received a number of inquiries but few complaints.

HABITS STICK

He explained that bus riders develop habits of boarding buses at certain places and these habits are difficult to break. He added it would probably take this week before Mansfielders get accustomed to the new system.

Ross said he thought the system was working out very well and would improve bus service in the city.

West and south side residents who work at the courthouse are finding the new routes ideal. Their inbound buses stop in front of the courthouse. Formerly passengers on the Glessner-Reformatory line had to walk from Park avenue west and Mulberry street to the courthouse.

Major change in the routes, and the one which is causing the most confusion, is the shifting of the transfer point from Fourth and Main streets to the northwest corner of Central park.

Northbound runs, including West Fourth, Fairgrounds, North Main, and Reformatory, now start from North Park street, beside the H. L. Reed store.

South, east, and westbound runs, including Park avenue west, Glessner, South Main, and Hedges, now start on North Main street, in front of the Richland Trust company.

Bus stops have been eliminated at West Fourth and Walnut streets, Park avenue west and Walnut street, North Main and Third streets, and the Southern hotel and South Main and First streets on southbound runs.

The North Main-Glessner runs and South Main-Reformatory runs have been combined and the Park avenue west run changed.

1949 Bill Sets New Record

TB Bonds Boost Cost

It will cost Richland county a record $1,268,139 to operate its government this year.

The appropriation bill setting up funds for county departments was approved today by county commissioners. The total allocation is $202,539 higher than the 1948 appropriation.

One of the principal increases is $100,000 for the first payments on the bonds and interest for the new tuberculosis sanatorium.

Other figures in the record appropriation include a general operating fund of $671,739, a TB operating sum of $81,500, $12,200 in the dog and kennel fund, and $350,000 in the county road fund.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said the general fund presented the greatest problem as the requests in most cases far exceeded revenue estimates.

And although all departments received increased appropriations over last year, requests were cut, Wolfe said. He added that the revenue for 1949 will reach a record high of $671,580. A total of about $70,000, which constituted the county's balance on Jan. 1, was appropriated in order to write the appropriation bill.

REQUESTS PARED

Requests for general remodeling of the Children's Home, County Home, courthouse and jail, and for a solution to the juvenile home problem totaled $100,000. Commissioners said they recognize the need for these major improvements, but were unable to appropriate such a sum and still maintain normal county operations.

Wolfe said a possible way of meeting these expenditures would be through special financing, such as a bond issue or a levy, requiring a vote of the people.

An increase was voted in the appropriations for the county's welfare institutions and offices, including the Children's Home, County Home, TB sanatorium, Aid to Dependent Children program, transient relief, care of the indigent sick, and maintenance of persons in the workhouse and county jail.

Wolfe said the county will spend about $300,000 of locally collected funds for welfare purposes in 1949 and about $150,000 in state and federal funds, expended through county channels.

Wolfe said the increased appropriation was due to contemplated purchase of new equipment, previously unavailable, higher costs of repair and maintenance, a slight increase in the number of employes, and an increase in the salaries of elected county officials as provided by law passed by the state assembly. Employes' salaries remain the same as last year.

Money for funds outside the general fund is received from special sources and can be used for no other purpose. Wolfe explained. These include the TB operating

Living Cost Cut Sighted

NEW YORK. — (AP) — The rush of people attracted by post-Christmas sales has convinced many leading retailers the nation is headed for a new era of lower prices.

They voice this conviction with certain reservations, of course—and in some cases with crossed fingers. Right now some 6,000 retailers are attending the 38th annual convention of the National retail Dry Goods association in New York, and their main objective is to increase sales, lower their costs and maintain profits.

The general picture these leaders outline is this: Christmas sales bogged down until they barely exceeded last year's figures, and the year as a whole was only five per cent above 1947. But the response to sales at reduced prices indicate people will buy an increased volume of goods if price, style and value are balanced to fit the consumer's pocketbook.

The experts don't look for a general price break, nor for a business recession, but they do look for a general selective downward price revision.

Absolute Security Impossible, Arms Expert Says

High Taxes, Hard Work Called Price of Peace For U. S.

High taxes, eternal vigilance, and hard work are the price Americans must pay for peace, a leading military authority told an audience last night in Ashland.

Hanson Baldwin, Pulitzer prize-winning military editor of the New York Times, mapped a rough but hopeful course for the country and urged its people to accept the huge responsibility world events have thrust upon them.

Baldwin spoke in McDowell auditorium in the Ashland College Concert-Lecture series. A number of Mansfielders heard the talk.

"Absolute security is a will-o-the-wisp, but if we were sure of our security, the world would be a pretty dull place," he said.

Taking a page from the football book, Baldwin said a powerful offense is the best defense.

"But one of our major problems is building the powerful military machine we need without taking the guise of an aggressor."

The United States is going to find its armanents program will be more costly than anticipated, he said. He predicted that funds in excess of the 15 billions requested by President Truman for defense will be needed before the end of the next fiscal year.

"We must recognize the fact that there are two worlds today, both battling for the minds of men, and it is important that we play our cards properly to avert a war of arms," Baldwin said. "If western Europe comes under the control of communists, there is certain to be war. The same thing could happen if the communists take over all of Asia."

For this reason, he said, it is important that the United States continue its financial aid to European countries to help them rehabilitate themselves.

"We must continue our moral and psychological offensive," he added.

Despite the smoldering fires in Berlin and Palestine, Baldwin sees no immediate danger of war involving the United States. With elections coming up in Israel this month, he said the leaders

Alleged Pro-Russian Attitude Of Dean Acheson Draws Fire

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S selection of Dean Acheson, one of the happy hot dogs of the Harvard law cabal, for secretary of state, begins to explain his tenacious opposition to the revelations of communist treachery in the state department as related by Whittaker Chambers, Elizabeth Bentley and others. Acheson was Felix Frankfurter's lawyer before the Senate judiciary committee when Frankfurter was up for confirmation as justice of the Supreme Court.

Acheson and Frankfurter were sponsors of Alger Hiss and Acheson is now a law partner of Donald Hiss. Frankfurter was the only nominee in the history of the Supreme Court who required a mouthpiece.

The opposition to Frankfurter's appointment followed the lines which since have been clearly developed in the disclosure of an invisible government of Frankfurter men. But it could not then go as far as it might if the hearings were held today.

It has since been revealed by Harold Ickes that Frankfurter told him he picked Henry L. Stimson to be secretary of war and that Frankfurter was the chief sponsor of Alger Hiss both for his earlier jobs in the cells of the new deal and for his later position of power in the state department.

In that position Hiss eventually sat with Roosevelt and Stalin at Yalta when Roosevelt signed away the Orient, Poland, the Balkans and it may develop, western Christendom, to the Kremlin.

For unknown reasons, Acheson has not been called to testify before the committee on un-American activities, although A. A. Berle, another of the Harvard law clique, testified that Acheson was pro-Russian.

Berle wanted Acheson to declare himself on Hiss because Chambers, in 1939, told him that Alger and Donald Hiss were members of a "group" in the state department who favored Russia.

On the subject of Acheson's attitude toward the Kremlin in an inquiry into charges of treachery against the United States by Russian agents, Berle said: "I felt (in the fall of 1944) that the Russians were not going to be sympathetic and cooperative. Intelligence reports in my charge indicated a very aggressive policy not in line with the cooperation everyone was hoping for. The opposite group in the state department was largely the men—Mr. Acheson's group, of course, with Mr. Hiss as his principal assistant. Mr. Hiss did take what we would call the pro-Russian point of view."

Truman's adoption of a Munich policy toward Russia in the face of the disclosures of treachery is further indicated by the withdrawal of General Smith from the Moscow embassy.

Smith was one of the Roosevelt-Pearl Harbor Political army officers. He did not vindicate himself in the kangaroo courts which lynched short, a fellow army officer, and Admiral Kimmel. Far from it.

However, he served Roosevelt's interests well in the Pearl Harbor episode and was promoted from lieut.-colonel to lieut.-general in a short time.

In Russia, in accordance with Truman's "get tough" policy, he stood up to Stalin. The change of mood is indicated by the fact that he is now withdrawn.

It will be further shown by the appointment soon of Chief Justice Vinson of the United States as ambassador to the Kremlin.

Set to Serve Ton of Food In Half Hour

C of C Committee Reveals Its Menu

Did you ever try serving a ton of meat and fish and vegetables to 1,900 people in less than 26 minutes? That's the goal of R. R. Hayes and Kenneth Strock, co-chairmen of the food committee for the 37th annual Chamber of Commerce dinner Friday night at the Coliseum.

Nine hundred and 15 pounds of rolled rib roast of prime beef have been ordered for the meat course. An additional 100 pounds of fresh Lake Erie blue pike will be served to those preferring fish.

One hundred pounds of mushrooms will go into the gravy served with the beef, and 1,000 pounds of sweet potatoes will be prepared.

For the Waldorf salad, the committee has ordered 25 cases of Washington red Delicious apples, six cases of marshmallows, and 35 pounds of nutmeats.

Five hundred pounds of fresh frozen lima beans and whole kernal corn will be served.

Relish dishes will hold seven crates of celery, 300 bunches of radishes, and four cases of olives and pickels.

If Mansfielders are still able to eat after consuming all the food mentioned above, 336 pumpkin pies will be served as dessert.

Two hundred gallons of coffee also will be served with the dinner.

Hayes and Strock said they hope to beat their previous record of serving the entire crowd in 26 minutes.

In an effort to beat this record, 150 persons will be employed to serve the dinner which will be entirely prepared at the Coliseum.

A crew of waitresses will be assigned to each of 10 serving stations situated at various places in the room.

The serving stations will be equipped with a total of 115 electric roasters for preparing the meat. The meat for previous banquets was partially prepared in the Westinghouse cafeteria and later taken to the Coliseum where it was comleted for serving.

The "sold out" sign went up this morning as ticket sales closed at 10 a. m. No turn back tickets were being accepted after the close of ticket sales.

"The tourists are coming in like an invading army," he says, "vacancies are becoming scarce and from 100 to 200 hungry people stand in front of a restaurant waiting to get in."

CONCERT GOES ON—

In the true tradition of all good theater, Leon Machan, accompanist for Met tenor Richard Tucker, carried on last night in spite of the fact that his 13-months-old son was confined to the hospital and facing an operation. Only those people in the audience who had talked with either Tucker or Machan before the Civic Music concert knew of the musician's worry. "He may have had the operation by now," Machan remarked, noticeably nervous after the concert. "But we're sure that he'll be all right, and he's getting wonderful care." Machan, who resides in Cleveland, is a former pianist of the Cleveland Symphony orchestra.

CATALOG ENTERTAINS—

Deputy Sheriff Roscoe Swartz brought a 1901 mail order catalog to the county jail and deputies have been getting a lot of fun out of looking over some of the items in it. Some of the values listed are ladies' automobile coats, $6.50; parlor organs, from $24.75; men's suits, from $4.50. (the "very finest fancy worsted suit" is priced at $12.00), a 12-gauge, double-barrel shotgun, $10.95, and pocket watches, 84 cents. Wigs of all sizes, colors and shapes are boldly advertised.

GOP Wages Battle For Funds Slash

Hospital Cut Draws Protests

WASHINGTON — (NS) — Influential Democrats predicted today that Congress will increase instead of reduce President Truman's record peacetime budget of nearly forty-two billion dollars.

Republican protests that the budget already is "out of sight" and "dangerously inflationary," were offset by demands for restoration of certain cuts made in departmental requests, particularly the air force.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D.-Mont.), who will head the joint economic committee, said that "in the light of what the country has to do, I think the President set an extraordinarily low figure and Congress may find it is too low."

Sen. Russell (D.-Ga.), influential member of the senate appropriations committee, commented that "if we can hold it down to forty-two billion dollars, we will be doing well."

Rep. Gore (D.-Tenn.), young Democratic leader and a member of the House Appropriations committee, predicted also that the budget probably will be increased.

Gore said Congress may vote increased funds for the following:

1. Air force, to give it 70 groups.
2. Veterans hospitals.
3. Agriculture, to provide additional funds for price supports.
4. Rural electrification.
5. Post office buildings.

Mr. Truman's 280 million dollar cut in the veterans hospital construction program brought quick repercussions. Rep. Rankin (D.-Miss.), chairman of the House Veterans committee, said he was "extremely disappointed."

Members in whose districts the new hospitals were slated to be built were dismayed by the reduction.

Tenor Brings New High In Artistry

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Mansfield heard a new high in musical artistry last night with the appearance of a master craftsman in the field—Richard Tucker.

The leading tenor of the Metropolitan sent Civic Music patrons home refreshed. They had heard a "new" tenor repertoire—one that gave them, as one patron termed it, "crystal art.."

General opinion among concert-goers was: "For once the artist didn't 'play down' to us."

In the best artist tradition, Tucker displayed his magnificent voice in a concert which would have done justice to New York's Town Hall and to the critical patrons of the music center.

And, probably most notable of all, patrons at last found equal enjoyment in the not-so-familiar numbers.

The concert, third in the winter series of the association, was held in John Simpson auditorium. Appearing with the artist as accompanist was Leon Machan, former pianist of the Cleveland Symphony orchestra.

From the very first bars of the lovely recitative, "Non gemiti," by Pergolesi, Tucker promised one of the most musically enjoyable concerts offered to date.

"We thought we had reached the top when we had John Charles Thomas and Marian Anderson on the program before," one patron commented. "I'm very sure we've reached the top again."

"Non gemiti" and "Va, infida," both from the cantata, "Contrasti Crudeli," by the Italian composer, introduced the program.

SINGS HANDEL NUMBERS

Switching to English, Tucker showed the brilliant range and fire of his voice with "Where'er You Walk" from Handel's "Semele" and again, Handel's stirring "Sound An Alarm" from "Judas Maccabeus."

Applause rang out when the artist finished the plaintive, self-victorious, "O Paradiso!" from Meyerbeer's "L' Africana."

Tucker's generosity with encores was seen when he promptly returned with "M'Appari," from the opera "Martha," and "Tarantella," by Leoncavallo, prior to intermission.

Returning to the stage in the midst of a burst of applause, Tucker opened the second portion of his program with the melodious, half-muted "Apres un Reve," by Faure, continuing with the hauntingly beautiful "Madrigal," by Fourdrain; "Le Temp des Lilas," by Chausson, and the well-known and loved "Flower Song," from "Carmen."

Seemingly best liked of his final selections was the lovely "Spirit Flower," by Campbell-Tipton, in which Tucker once again showed the control which has played so much a part of his stellar rise to operatic fame.

Other selections included "Do You Remember," by Levitski; "Old Mother Hubbard," a nursery tale done in operatic style, and "Hallelujah," by Zilberts.

OFFERS ENCORES

Encores, "Morning," by Speaks; "Awake, Beloved," by Clara Edwards, and "For You Alone," according to Tucker the "only ballad ever sung by the immortal Caruso," closed the program.

Surrounded by admirers and autograph seekers from five years to 50 after the program, Tucker also showed the stature of the artist — as a man.

A member of the audience complimented him on his choice of program and on his gracious, yet straight-forward manner of presentation. To this the personable artist replied:

"My wife always tells me — in the best Brooklyn style — to 'give it to them right between the eyes.' That's the way I do it."

Mansfielder Featured On Broadcast

Featured last night on "The Ohio Story," over station WTAM Cleveland, was E. J. Wessen, owner of the Midland Rare Book company, 30 Bowman street. The program dealt with Wessen's early life and how he became interested in rare books, and his present nationwide book business.

Wessen's first acquisition of rare books, was in Boston on his 15th birthday, when his father gave him two dollars to buy his own gift, suggesting at the time, he needed a new pair of shoes. Wessen spent the two dollars for various old and rare books, instead, and has been an avid, rare book collector from that day.

When he came to Ohio in 1923, as an industrial engineer, Wessen's books were still just a hobby, although his collection of dramatists of the Restoration, including English literaries as far back as Addison and Steele, was considered one of the best in the nation.

Due to a fractured ankle, received while teaching his daughter to ski, in 1933, there was a possibility that he would not be able to pursue his vocation as an engineer. He then decided to become a book dealer, and actually began his now flourishing book business from a hospital bed.

Foremen Hear Loyalty Talk

"Loyalty" was the subject of a talk delivered by Harry Coopland before the monthly meeting of the Mansfield-Shelby Foremen's club at the Richland Recreation center last night.

Coopland told the 200 members present their loyalties were divided into three main categories—family, company, and community. The talk was punctuated with humorous quips, anecdotes, and stories, but was woven into a unity with a philosophic thread.

The dinner meeting was followed by entertainment provided by the "Hungry Five", a five-piece German band from Ashland. The band played old German dances, waltzes, and folk music. The program was sponsored by five Ashland firms.

Madison Plays New London Cagers Tonight

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

(News-Journal Sports Editor)

LOOKING through old newspaper files usually is a most enjoyable pastime. . . . We were glomming a raft of 1929 papers the other day and we came upon the '30 Senior high school grid sked . . . The schedule ran something like this: Willard, Bucyrus, Galion, Sandusky, Marion Harding, Shelby, Toledo Woodward and Ashland . . . Which goes to show the Bengals have grown up in the last score of years . . . Sandusky and Marion bowed from the Tyger slate in 1948, possibly for good . . . Just compare that bunch of schools with the '49 variety of Akron South, Cleveland East, Alliance, Warren Harding, Euclid, Massillon, Kent Roosevelt, Toledo Waite and Springfield . . . Only Kent compares with the previous schedule . . . Bucyrus and Ashland are on the 1949 Madison Ram grid docket . . . Massillon is really going great guns under its new basketball coach, Paul Schofer . . . The Tigers have won five straight, including a 47-to45 victory over Canton McKinley . . . With his team not scheduled until the weekend, Vern Hoffman, Senior high basketball coach, is getting in some overtime watching college basketball . . He saw the Ohio State-Illinois game in Columbus last night and is slated to take in the Kentucky-Bowling Green classic in Cleveland tonight with some members of his staff.

Four Games On Slate In County Loop

Mansfield's high school basketball program for the second week in January gets under way tonight when the Madison Rams play at New London.

Coach Blaine Dowler's club is favored to win its fifth victory in seven starts, although the Ram mentor figures the game could be close.

Dowler explains it this way: "You see Bob Brownson (New London coach) and I were classmates at Ashland college this summer. We kept needling each other about the coming basketball game Well, Brownson hates to lose and will have his club all keyed up for us

"But the Madison players are all set to go now Center Joe Distl is still being treated for his back ailment but appears okay."

Three Games Open Play In Court League

Reese Optical, Westinghouse, and Main Cigar store jumped into an early lead in the second half race of the American basketball league last night at Senior high school.

Westinghouse and Main Cigar had things pretty much as it pleased while Reese Optical outlasted a refortified Ideal Billiards team, 33-30.

Frank Jocha and Bob Colwell who played the first half season with Urschel Insurance in the "A" league joined Ideal last night but were throttled by the good-shooting Reese team.

Don Sands scored 25 points to lead Westinghouse to a 59-35 win over Ideal Electric while Main Cigar Store trounced Shorty's News, 45-15. Mansfield Tire held a bye.

Hermans Schedule First Showing of 'Series' Picture

First Mansfield showing of the motion picture "World Series of 1948" has been scheduled next Sunday at the Sons of Herman hall.

Three programs are listed at 2, 7 and 9:30 p. m. and all are sponsored by the Hermans Horse club.

The 2 o'clock movie is for youngsters who participated in the 1948 Hot Stove league junior baseball program, the second program will be for Sons of Herman and Hot Stove league members and the third for Herman bowlers and their guests.

The Hermans hall holds only 300 persons, so each showing will be limited to that number.

Mike Marvison, president of the Horse club, announced today that his group would serve hot dogs and soft drinks to the Hot Stove baseballers. Marvison said that another baseball film would be shown in conjunction with the series movie.

Presbyterian 'Pingers' Win

United Presbyterian defeated Park Avenue Baptist, 5-2, in a Church league table tennis match last night.

In singles, Bob Gadfield, UP, defeated Chuck Au, 21-12, 21-9; Earl Beard, UP, beat Joe Vivian, 22-20, 21-10; Frank Gadfield, UP, beat John Colby, 21-13, 21-10; Jim Dickson, PA, took C. Weisenberger, 21-9, 21-15.

Doubles matches went to Bard and Weisenberger, UP, over Swisher and Allyn, 21-5, 21-8; Gadfield and Gadfield, UP, over Swisher and Dickson, 21-15, 21-14, while Vivian and Au, PA, took Procete and Scott, 21-12, 21-7.

First Methodist shut out First Christian, 7-0, in another league match.

Illini Cagers Win On Foul Near Finish

A hairbreadth free throw in the closing seconds of play put Illinois at the top of the Big Nine heap today and dulled Ohio State's hopes as a contender for the league cage title.

Wally Osterkorn's toss was the winning margin in the Illini's 64-63 victory over the Buckeyes at Columbus last night. The victors now lead the conference 3-0 while the Bucks have a 1-1 record by virtue of their loss. Ohio State's Dick Schnittker led the point makers with 20. Osterkorn led the scoring with 18 for Illinois.

BEHIND A LOT

The Orange and Blue cagers were second to the Bucks most of the game, but forged ahead shortly before halftime. With the score tied at 29-29, Dike Eddleman dropped in a long shot to give Illinois a 31-29 lead.

Schnittker regained the lead for the Bucks in the second half after the Illini pushed their slim lead to six points (39-33). The Bucks managed to lead 57-52 at one stage, but the visitors hung on until the final second, which paid off in victory.

The stellar Schnittker, while keeping his high-scoring honors intact, failed in the last half to sink five free throws.

State started off well by taking an early lead, which lasted until Dike Eddleman sunk a two-counter immediately before the first half ended, making the score 31-29 at intermission.

MICHIGAN LOSES

The Minnesota Gophers take to the road this Saturday night, playing at Purdue. And the Boilermakers, who handed defending champion Michigan its second straight setback by a 45-36 score at Lafayette, Ind., last night, are plenty rough in their own right.

Purdue used only its five starters and committed only seven personal fouls in topping the Wolverines last night. But an even more impressive success was that of Minnesota, which won its tenth game of the season without defeat by trampling Wisconsin at Minneapolis, 47 to 33.

In last night's other conference encounter, Indiana took care of Iowa, 50 to 39, at Bloomington, Ind., to draw even with Ohio State at the .500 spot on the ladder.

Young Girls' Loop to Open

Organization of a "pigtail" basketball league through the cooperation of Mansfield Girl Scouts and the city recreation department was announced today by Recreation Director Stan Kamen.

First session of play will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in the Rebecca Grubaugh school gym. Between 30 and 40 Senior scouts are expected to turn out for the first games.

The tournament will be continued, round-robin fashion, for the next five weeks. Sessions will be held every Saturday morning at Grubaugh.

Cleveland Buys Young Outfielder

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians today announced the purchase of Max Nielsen, 22-year-old outfielder, from Oklahoma City, their Texas league class AA farm club.

A Tribe spokesman described Nielsen as "one of the hottest athletes in our farm system."

Nielsen has been with Oklahoma City two years, hitting .294 last season and .298 the year before. He is fast and has an excellent throwing arm

Weiss Wouldn't Swap Yankees For Indians or Red Sox

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — The Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox both finished ahead of the New York Yankees last season, yet General Manager George Weiss said today that he would not swap his 1949 Yanks for either club, even though he has a "stand pat" outfit

With basically the same team which finished third last season, Weiss predicted another three-team race to the American League wire and gave two important reasons why he expected the Bronx Bombers to come home in front:

1 A complete medical overhauling of the personnel

2 Casey Stengel the Yanks new manager getting "full efficiency" out of the renovated personnel

"We had a championship club but it did not play up to championship form," explained the portly front office pilot "Last season we gave each player a medical checkup but didn't follow through Some reported overweight and weren't in good shape physically. This winter we've followed through."

In addition to slimming the fat and fattening the lean, Weiss revealed, the whole squad has had enough medical work done to keep a fair-sized medical staff busy. For instance, Joe DiMaggio has had a heel spur removed for the second time but this year long before spring training

"And as far as I know," Weiss grinned "he only has two heels So he should be okay."

Weiss indicated that he wasn't too happy over the fact that Bill Veeck, president of the world champion Indians, claimed the 1949 pennant

"It's a good time to win it, in the winter," he sneered "All winter I've been wondering whether we finished practically in a tie for first place or in the second division The plight of our club is over-estimated."

Checking over his club, Weiss argued that the Yanks have four "sound and proven" outfielders in DiMaggio, Charlie Keller, Tommy Henrich and Johnny Lindell He touted Gene Woodling and Cliff Maples as strong, young replacements

"I'll admit that Snuffy Stirnweiss didn't have a good year at second base but he knows it and will hustle," Weiss defended his infield. "There's nobody available for a trade I'd rather have."

With the remainder of his infield established, except for first base, Weiss said he expected either Babe Young or one of two Newark prospects, Jack Philips or Joe Collins, to fill that spot

"I like our catching," Weiss asserted in a statement which might bring smiles from the rest of the league "Bill Dickey, now one of our coaches, will work with Yogi Berra He helped Aaron Robinson and may surprise us in that department."

And then there's Stengel.

"Casey believes he might remedy things in the case of several players," he said succinctly.

At the moment, Weiss is a man completely without a ball club. Contracts won't be sent until late next week DiMaggio, the wheel horse, will be contacted personally.

"We haven't talked terms yet," Weiss said We've met several times but only exchanged pleasantries"

That prompted a query as to whether money wasn't pleasant grunted the man etaoin faoietao

"It probably is — to him," grunted the man who will have to shell out.

It was proof that even in the front office they know that as goes DiMaggio—so goes the Yankees

Legislator 'Shocked' By Budget

GOP—'Reckless'; Dems—'Practical'

WASHINGTON— (UP) —President Truman's big peacetime budget was attacked by Republicans today as "reckless" and endorsed by Democrats as "practical."

"Wow" was the first reaction of Rep. John Taber, R., N. Y., who headed the House Appropriations committee in the Republican 80th congress.

"We'll have to go over it and try to civilize it—try to cut it down to earth," said Taber. "I have no doubt about our ability to cut it down, if we have the votes."

House Speaker Sam Rayburn was guarded. "It's very comprehensive," said the Texas Democrat.

Rep. Clarence Cannon, D., Mo., who will be chairman of the appropriations committee, said the budget was "the most practical that could be presented at this time."

Cannon said it may involve deficit spending but that "it is part of a long-time program in which you will have benefits for years to come."

He pointed out that one-third of the proposed spending is for national defense, which, he said, cannot be cut substantially at this time.

Rep. Sol Bloom, D., N. Y., incoming chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee, said he did not believe Congress could cut very much from President Truman's foreign aid requests.

Senate Republican floor leader Kenneth S. Wherry of Nebraska said the president's budget was "reckless" and "is designed to have some appeal to about everybody except the taxpayer."

Rep. Charles A. Halleck, R., Ind., GOP house floor leader, said he would stand on his original prediction that the government "will be billions of dollars in the red" if the president's program is enacted.

Weisman also is an associate editor of the Plain Dealer and a professor of economics at Western Reserve university, Cleveland.

More than 50 members of the division from the Mansfield area are expected to attend the monthly dinner meeting.

Red Cross Work Cited

Mrs. Bess Augsberger, executive secretary of the Richland County Red Cross, outlined the functions of the Red Cross blood donor program in a talk to the Mansfield Exchange club yesterday noon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Mrs. Augsberger summarized the past activities of the Red Cross in this area, such as the swimming and life-saving courses given to 1,200 persons last year, the nation-wide Red Cross communication system, used extensively by service men and their families during the war, and the thousands of pints of blood given to the armed forces through the facilities of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Augsberger told how blood collected here by the mobile blood unit is sent to Columbus for processing and typing, and then returned to the Mansfield General hospital for use in Richland county. She stressed the point that the blood is given to the Red Cross and in turn is given to the patient. Any charges made for a blood transfusion are strictly for the doctor's or hospital's administration of the blood, she said.

During the meeting, five guests and one new member were introduced to the group, and various committee chairmen gave reports.

Problem Arouses Penang

Secession Sought By Tiny Malayan State

By STANLEY SWINTON

PENANG, Federation of Malaya —(AP)— The United States fought a civil war over secession. The same issue has awakened this oldest corner of Britain's Pacific empire from a 162-year political doze.

Most of Penang's population wants to secede from the infant federation of Malaya. They want to become a crown colony. It's an embarrassing request for Britain's labor government at a time when colonies are going out of style.

Little known outside the Orient, Penang is one of the most important ports in the Far East because it lies on the main shipping route between Europe and the Orient—the Straits of Malacca, which divide Malaya and Sumatra.

One touchy question is that of locally born Chinese. The federation is dominated by Malays. In Penang there is a general feeling that the Chinese are regarded as "second-grade citizens." The federal authorities stoutly deny this but there is no doubt the Chinese and some Indians feel it to be so.

This quiet corner of the empire had ignored politics since time before memory. But in December a political meeting was called—a sensational development.

The Malays boycotted it. But Penang's most important British, Chinese, Indian and Eurasian leaders attended. After hours of speeches they voted for secession.

Now, in the words of the Straits Echo, it is time for the matter to receive "urgent and serious attention in Kuala Lumpur and Whitehall."

The odds are the plea will be rejected. But win, lose or draw, the secession issue has done for Penang what the stamp tax did for colonial America—awakened the people politically and shaken the colonial administrators who reshuffled Malaya without consulting the people.

CHAIN OF ROCKS BRIDGE—Span will bring in thousands of dollars toward Madison's operation.

City Plans Tax-Free Program

By HARRY BARNES
(Central Press Correspondent)

MADISON, Ill. — In these days of high costs and bankrupt communities, the little village of Madison, Ill., has overcome all of today's inflationary obstacles and is on the road toward that Utopia of all Utopias—a community without taxation.

Unbelievable as it may appear, the officials of this little town of 7,700 people located along the Mississippi river have figured out a program that should be the envy of every city official or politician elsewhere in the country. It is a plan to cut out all city taxation within a three-year period.

It all comes about as a result of the village's purchase of the Chain of Rocks bridge in 1934 on the theory that the bridge would pay for itself and might, if handled properly, provide some additional revenue. It has done that and much more.

It has, principally, provided the village with the security needed for a bond issue that will make the tax-elimination program possible. And there is no doubt that the bond issue plan is one of the finest bits of smart financing in city government that has been arranged in a long time.

During the years the village has operated the Chain of Rocks bridge, it has been building up a reserve fund from the profits on the tolls. Not long ago, village officials found that this fund had grown until it totaled $550,000, a pretty princely sum in itself. The village still owed $2,150,000 on the purchase price of the bridge.

Now, under the new program, the city plans to issue a new bond issue in the amount of $1,600,000, applying the $550,000 reserve on the outstanding obligation to reduce the cost to the $1,600,000 figure. The new issue will cost 2.5 per cent interest coprared to the old rate of 2.75 per cent.

Under the ordinance providing for the bond issue, the city will receive from the bridge tolls collected during any given year, 50 per cent of the gross receipts. However, for the first three years, this will go toward building up a new reserve fund.

Then, in 1952, the city's share of the gross receipts are expected to be approximately $100,000. The city has approximately $30,000 in other income, such as liquor license fees, motor fuel taxes and similar receipts.

Since the city's annual budget runs around $130,000, the income from the bridge and other sources will permit the city to eliminate entirely the city tax rate.

Mayor Stephen Maeras of Madison says the city has an even longer-range program. By 1963, the officials believe that the reserve fund will have accumulated to the point where it will be possible to pay off the balance of the bonds still owed at that time.

This will do one of two things. It will make possible a further reduction in taxes, or the city can eliminate the tolls on the bridge and make it free.

Mayor Maeras points out that the receipt of monies from surpluses in the reserve fund, under special arrangements in the new bond issue, gradually will increase the city's share of the bridge collections until 1963 when the income from the bridge should approximate the faull amount of the city budget. Thus, it will be possible at that time to eliminate the communit's entire tax rate.

However just so the envy won't be too great, the taxpayers still may be called upon to pay out a few cents per $100 valuation to maintain the library fund and playground fund.

If they do, they will not mind. The community just dedicated a $165,000 municipal swimming pool and recreational hall as a memorial to its World Ward II dead.

The program evolved out of nine months' study by Mayor Maeras, City Attorney Austin Lewis and the city finance committee headed by Alderman John Bridick.

Perhaps Madison can give the nation's other communities some ideas.

Ohio Democrat Has Top Role On Appropriation Measure

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. Michael J. Kirwan, Youngstown Democrat, plans to make speed his watchword in preparing the major appropriation bill for the interior department this year.

With the Democrats in control of the House, Kirwan is slated to be chairman of the appropriations subcommittee handling the Interior measure.

The catch-all features of this bill mean that it is often one of the last money measures to reach the House floor. Lengthy hearings are common on the various phases of the interior department's activities—reclamation, Indian affairs, public land management, mining research and statistics, supervision of the national parks, the fish and wildlife service.

Kirwan says many of the basic problems stemming from these activities have been thoroughly aired in past years. There is no reason, he adds, why the arguments need to be threshed out so completely this time.

The Interior appropriation bill was especially slow in preparation in 1948. Kirwan indicates he wants to get it out of the way before the late-session pileup of bills handicaps orderly handling of the measure on the House floor.

Reclamation, long a matter of prime concern to many western states, will as usual be at the heart of any controversy over interior funds.

The Republican-controlled 80th Congress voted a record sum of more than $250,000,000 last year for reclamation, projects, and there is considerable talk that President Truman intends to ask for double that amount in his budget message due for presentation to Congress the first of the week.

Kirwan, who has worked on farms, in coal mines and around oil fields, says he has seen enough of the wasting of resources in the United States to stand solidly behind any presidential request for reclamation or conservation funds.

"I'm for every dime of the money asked when it's intended for the conservation and development of America's natural wealth," he adds.

Rep Wayne Hays, freshman Democrat from Flushing, Belmont county says he's worried about damage being done to agricultural land in southeastern Ohio by strip mining operations.

He plans to ask the legislative council whether the federal government has any constitutional authority to intervene with the aim of preserving such lands. If so, Hays says he may offer legislation to cope with the problem.

But he adds the chances are strong he will be informed that the puestion of safeguarding its good farming land is one for Ohio itself to handle.

Hays says that while it may be true, as claimed, that stripping operations directly affect only a relatively small portion of the land, the indirect effects of upsetting drainage and often isolating surrounding territory are usually widespread. He wants controls on strip mining to prevent this indirect damage.

Rep. Clarence Brown, top-ranking House Republican from Blanchester, says he is looking for the Democrats to increase their share of committee memberships in the House as they have done in the Senate.

The Democratic majority in the upper chamber changed party ratios on eight committtees, including the important foreign relations and agriculture groups. The old 7 to 6 margin for the majority was upped to 8 to 5.

This step, along with the House move clipping some of the rules committee's vaunted power, is generally viewed among congressmen as designed to provide a clear, smooth road for the President's extensive legislative program.

The census bureau has some new figures showing Ohio continues to rank remarkably low in the total indebtedness of its state government.

Furthermore, the state reduced its debt measurably during the fiscal year ended last July 1.

As it stood then, Ohio's outstanding indebtedness came to just $8,751,000. That compares with $9,430,000 on July 1, 1947.

But the states close to Ohio in population, like Illinois, Pennsylvania, California and Texas, have much bigger debts.

Illinois, for example, had $474,431,000 in obligations outstanding last July, and that was a sizable increase over the previous year.

Pennsylvania's July 1, 1948 total was $165,415,000, also up from the year before, and Texas recorded $20,645,000, showing a fair-sized increase, too.

U. S. Must Seek New Asia Allies

India Suggested As Intermediary

In trying to decide what we should do we must begin, I think, by recognizing that we cannot shape and direct the course of events in Asia. We may be able to exert a useful influence in maintaining friendly relations between the western democracies and the emerging peoples of Asia.

Even that will be difficult to do. But if we try to do more than that, or something quite different—as for example to support puppet governments against the rising tide of nationalism and social revolution—we shall almost certainly fail, and lose what influence we might otherwise have.

When we assess our position in Asia, as we must in order to form a policy, we may begin with the fact that we defeated Japan by dominating the Pacific ocean and the islands of Japan —not by defeating the Japanese army and then liberating and occupying the vast territories in China, Indonesia, and in southwest Asia which Japan had conquered. The American victory gave the United States undisputed supremacy north of the equator and up to the coasts of the Asiatic continent.

But we did not attempt or presume to deal directly with the immense areas which Japan had conquered from the Chinese, the British, the French, and the Dutch.

Having made the fundamental and unavoidable strategic decision to strike at the heart of Japan, and not to become involved in large land operations on the continent or south of the equator, it was left to our allies to take over the conquered territory evacuated by Japan.

Among our allies who were conceded the right to take over after the Japanese defeat, the Chinese under Chiang Kai-shek, the French and the Dutch had been too gravely weakened by the war to take over successfully. They have not been able to pacify the territory they lost to Japan.

LACKED AUTHORITY

Not only were they weak in material power. They were without real moral authority. Chiang Kai-shek's government, though it has received far greater help from the United States than the Chinese communists have received from Russia, has collapsed. It has not collapsed because it was beaten in battle but because it has lost the support of the Chinese people. In Indonesia and in Indo-China the Japanese destroyed, probably forever, the prestige of Western empire.

Though the Japanese were in the end defeated by the Americans, they had proved that an Asiatic nation could defeat the European empires in the Orient. Their slogan of "Asia for the Asiatics" continues to work, despite the surrender on the battleship Missouri.

Where then shall we look for allies, now that Nationalist China, the Netherlands, and France are so manifestly unable to play the role in Asia which we had supposed they would play? That, it seems to me, is the fundamental problem which has to be solved in order to form an American policy in Asia.

My own view is that the right direction was indicated by Attlee when he took the bold and far-reaching decision to treat India and Pakistan as leading members of what is now no longer the British Commonwealth but simply the Commonwealth. I am told that at the conference of the Commonwealth prime ministers in London last summer, Nehru, who is certainly the greatest figure in Asia, suggested that in the future India might become the intermediary between Asia and the West.

SHOULD CONSULT NEHRU

We would be well advised, I think, to enter into intimate consultation with Nehru about our whole course in China and in Indonesia. In doing that we should find ourselves in harmony with the Australians, who are surely among our dependable friends, as well as with Mr. Attlee and the wisest makers of modern British policy.

This is not only the most promising way of approaching the tremendous convulsion in Asia. It is also the most truly American way. For our position in Asia rests on a great tradition, unique in modern history. We have been, and still are, the only world power which has refused to become the imperial ruler of subject peoples. That reputation originated in the fact that we are ourselves a colonial people that won its independence.

It has been confirmed by our long support of Chinese independence, by our history in the Philippines and in Cuba. Our most precious asset in Asia is our ability to persuade the people of Asia that there is a nation in the Western world, more powerful than the Soviet Union, which sympathizes with their struggle for independence, and has no wish to exploit it.

Our friends in western Europe should try to understand why we can not and must not be maneuvered, why we dare not drift, into general opposition to the movements for independence in Asia. They should tell their propagandists to stop smearing these movements.

They should try to realize how disastrous it would be to them, and to the cause of Western civilization, if ever it could be said that the Western Union for the defense of freedom in Europe was in Asia a syndicate for the preservation of decadent empires.

State Legislature Back to Work; Pension Checks Held Up

House OK Needed On Money Bill

State Employes Await Paychecks

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio's Democratic-controlled legislature went back to work today under Gov. Frank J. Lausche's plea to carry out party pledges without raising taxes.

The House Finance committee sought to make up lost time on the Senate-passed $146,000,000 six-month appropriation bill. Approval by representatives is needed to get money to run the state.

Jan. 15 pay checks to about 35,000 state employes and grants to Ohio's 124,000 old-age pensioners will be delayed because enactment of the money bill is past due, the state auditor's office said.

Partial appropriations customarily are passed during the first week of a new general assembly and signed into law by the outgoing governor. GOP Gov. Thomas J. Herbert turned over his office to Lausche while legislators were in adjournment to take part in the inauguration.

A battle over chairmanship of the House Finance committee blocked passage of the appropriations measure last week. Rep. Anna F. O'Neil (D-Summit), a Lausche stalwart, finally beat out Rep. Ray M. White (D-Holmes).

House Speaker John F. Cantwell (D-Mahoning) said the money bill probably will reach the House floor Wednesday. It might encounter some delay there.

That could happen if Republicans attempted to insert amendments to increase pay of state workers. Senate Republicans last week tried to jump appropriations $4,500,000 to boost pay of employes $25 monthly.

Other than passing the money bill and completing House committees, lawmakers are expected to mark time until Lausche discloses details of his legislative program. He has not said when he will present it personally to the two houses. If he follows custom, it will be next week.

Governor and Mrs. Lausche spent yesterday afternoon and evening receiving congratulations of well-wishers at receptions in the statehouse and executive mansion. Moore than 1,800 people shook hands with Lausch in two hours and twenty minutes in the statehouse, by Highway Patrol estimate. An invitational buffet supper, press and radio smoker, and inaugural ball completed a busy inauguration day.

Peace Price Set High

there must make a good showing and probably are displaying more aggressiveness in the war than will be true after the elections.

Baldwin, who witnessed the second atomic bomb and missiles test in the Pacific, pictured an atom bomb three to five times as powerful as the ones used on Japan He said, however, that there is none in sight so effective that one will destroy a large city.

The high cost of bombs and the scarcity of the materials that go into them prohibit mass production of them as weapons, he explained.

Baldwin said the United States has been experimenting with biological—germ and bacterial—weapons for a long time and had two shiploads on the way to Japan when the war ended The bacteria would have been used on the Japs rice fields to start fungus diseases

RANGE LIMITED

There are no rocket weapons that will travel more than 300 to 400 miles but missiles that will cross the oceans are a possibility, and so are heavy bombers that can cross the ocean drop their load and return, he asserted

Baldwin's program for a defense that will demand the respect of the world calls for long-term, highly trained professional armed forces, a good world-wide intelligence system, a much better civilian defense set-up than we had in the last war, and bases and allies overseas.

Although he advocated continuance of selective service he said it's possible to train men for highly specialized warfare only when they are in service for a long period. This can be achieved best through volunteers he said

The nation's military intelligence system can stand improvement, he said

NEED WARNING

"We need ample warning in a political crisis Last spring we were perilously close to war because one of our agencies made a misstep. Fortunately there were enough wise heads to avert trouble."

Baldwin urged what he described as a "readiness potential" which would permit the country to dispatch trained forces immediately if necessary.

The armed forces should be under civilian control and politics should have no place in them, he said.

He had kind words for the work of Defense Secretary James Forrestal but predicted he won't retain his post more than six months or a year. He did not elaborate on his prediction.

fund, which comes out of a special five-mill levy, the $100,000 appropriated for paying off the TB building bonds, the dog and kennel fund made up of revenue from dog tag sales.

MORE REVENUE NEEDED

Wolfe said that if operating requirements continue to rise in future years it will be virtually impossible to finance county government on present sources of revenue.

He said the only current hope for relief seems to be in the possibility of additional state aid for some welfare activities, which is to be considered by the present state legislature.

Here's the breakdown for the various offices:

County commissioners allowed themselves $17,602 compared with expenditures of $15,548 during 1948. Their request was $20,600.

The county auditor asked $47,000, but this was cut to $43,620, compared with expenditures of $41,980 in 1948.

The county treasurer put in a request for $30,000, but was allowed $27,308. He received $24,360 last year.

The county prosecutor asked $17,000, but was given an appropriation of $15,702. Expenses for that office in 1947 were $12,505.

The request for juvenile court expenses was $12,157, compared with a request of $14,100. Expenses last year were $10,900.

For probate court, the request was $31,200, but $27,216 was allowed, compared with expenses of $25,975 in 1947.

The clerk of courts asked $29,360 and was given an appropriation of $26,538, compared with $24,025 for last year.

The coroner's office received an appropriation of $2,015, same as last year.

COSTS DOWN

The county board of elections received an appropriation of $30,000. That is under last year when $36,000 was spent for the presidential year primary and general election.

The appropriation for Common Pleas court was set at $19,050, compared with $18,486 last year.

Commissioners allowed an appropriation of $41,310 for the Soldier's Relief commission, whereas in 1947 expenditures totaled $36,860.

Maintenance of the jail and court house, which includes repairs, utilities, rents for offices outside the court house, was put at $54,425, on the basis of past experience. Last year's expenses were $49,810.

The sheriff asked for $56,100, but $54,112 was appropriated, compared with expenditures of $49,404 in 1947.

The recorder asked $20,600 and was granted $19,448, compared with $18,956 last year.

Commissioners allowed $45,600 for the County Home, compared with $44,700 in 1947.

The Children's Home fund (Child Welfare board) was set at $60,000, whereas the board had asked $76,780. The board last year received $52,250.

TB FUND UP

Operation aand maintenance of the TB sanatorium was set at $81,500, compared to $70,000 for 1947.

The Aid to Dependent Children program was allowed $50,000 as the county share, compared to a request of $60,372 Last year the program received $43,000 in county money. That sum is supplemented by state anad federal money which will bring the total up to approximately $150,000.

The county road fund appropriaition was upped to $350,000, up approximately $40,000. All of that money is reappropriated by the state from gasoline and auto license taxes, collected in Richland county.

The appropriation out of the general fund for the engineer's office is $23,390, compared with $20,500 last year. The engineer's salary and one-third the expenses of the office are paid out of county funds and the rest from the road fund money.

VA Cancels Hospital Expansion

Action Follows Truman's Order

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Veterans Administration yesterday canceled 24 proposed new hospitals and reduced the size of 14 others in order to conform with President Truman's fiscal 1950 budget.

None of the hospitals was beyond the planning stage, Carl R. Gray jr., veterans administrator, said.

"The new building program," he said, "will not result in a service-connected veteran being denied immediate hospitalization."

The changes in hospital construction were made in view of President Truman's order reducing VA hospitals beds by 16,000.

The projects eliminated and number of beds included:

Toledo, O., neuropsychiatric, 1,000.

Hospitals to be reduced in size include: Cincinnati, general, 750 to 500; Cleveland, general, 1,000 to 500; Cleveland, neuropsychiatric, 1,250 to 1,000; Louisville, general, 750 to 500.

Gray pointed out in a statement that VA's original estimates on its postwar hospital requirements "were considerably too high."

"To construct new hospitals which we cannot staff, and therefore cannot put into use, would be an indefensible waste of public monies," he said, adding that the cancellations would save $280,000,000.

Parking Meters Produced $48,218 For City In 1948

The average daily income from Mansfield's 461 parking meters totaled $157.45 in 1948, $2.60 above the daily average income in 1947, the annual report of George Caton, parking meter collector, showed today.

Total income for the year was $48,218, approximately $322 less than in 1947. The daily average per meter income totaled 34 cents last year as compared with 36 in 1947.

This drop was caused by the fact that although the total money collected in the year was about the same in 1947, an additional 15 meters were installed in the city in 1948, Caton said.

The parking meters were in operation a total of 300 days. They are non-operative on Sundays and holidays.

Stored Corn Nearly Double That of '48

WASHINGTON, —(AP)— Ohio farms had 153,826,000 bushels of corn on tap Jan. 1, compared to 91,453,000 bushels at that time last year. The agriculture department reported yesterday that Ohio's wheat stocks that date were 13,259,000 compared with 13,238,000 last year. Soy bean stocks in the state totaled 6,515,000 against 5,448,000 bushels in 1948.

Choice Spot Awarded to Sen. Bricker

Ohioan to Head Commerce Group

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Five veteran Republican senators yesterday were given choice spots on major Senate committees by the GOP conference.

At the same time, the Republican conference relegated its freshmen members to minor committees because of limitations imposed by the Democratic majority.

The switch involving the veteran members placed Sens. William F. Knowland, R., Cal., on armed services; Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R., Ia., on agriculture; John J. Williams, R., Del., on finance; William E. Jenner, R., Ind., on judiciary; and John W. Bricker, R., O., on the commerce committee.

The conference also agreed that Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., should seek to change the senate rules so two additional members, one Democrat and one Republican, would be assigned to each of the major committees.

This would permit assignment of freshmen senators to top committees.

MARY WASHINGTON DAR MEETS AT WOMEN'S CLUB

Thirty-five Members Attend January Meeting For Which Mrs. R. U. Shaffer Has Program.

THIRTY-FIVE members of Mary Washington chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, attended the January meeting in the Women's Club Monday, with Mrs. R. M. Calene, Mrs. Weston Cutter, Mrs. E. W. Dann and Mrs. Merrill Manz jr. serving as hostesses.

Luncheon was served at two long tables centered with bowls of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

The meeting was opened with a devotional period in charge of Mrs. Charles Fox in the absence of the chaplain, Mrs. Henry Sanford. The salute to the flag was led by Mrs. Allen Bond.

Routine business was discussed during the meeting, which was in charge of Mrs. David Feiser, chapter regent, and it was announced that the Golden Jubilee conference of Ohio societies, Daughters of American Revolution, would be held at the Hotel Cleveland in March. Delegates from the Mansfield chapter will be elected at the next meeting.

Mrs. R. U. Shaffer presented the program of the afternoon, speaking on the subject "American Music," in which she stated that since the war the trend has been towards American music.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, January 12

THE tactful and sagacious grasp of some exceptional or singular opening, peculiar situation or contact, could yield seemingly intangible results, later to develop in the very factual and realistic fulfillment of dreams, ideals or vague aspirations. Subtle and intriguing undercurrents may be shrewdly turned to good account by strong intuitive lead; or studied drive might result in solid benefits or realistic grasp of alluring or glamorous situations.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a period of intriguing or strange urges, in which an idealistic or fantastic state of affairs may be turned to excellent account by curious or vague lures. Under the sway of the intangible, whimsical or fantastic, the last analysis may find a firm foundation in fact. Aspirations, dreams, imagination or plain "hunches" may eventuate in surprising and unaccountable climax. It would be well to balance emotions and feelings by good sense.

A child born on this day may be richly blessed with secret and subtle powers or faculties, in which ideals, dreams, intuition or strange "hunches" may prove of value to a surprising degree, and with very concrete returns.

School Time Means Hearty Noon Meals

It's school time again and that means hearty lunches at noontime for a horde of hungry youngsters. Why not steer your thoughts toward a mid-day soup and sandwich combination. They are filling and delicious—and so easy on you busy mothers. Here are a couple of excellent combinations. Their first suggestion is a surprising mixture which makes a hearty soup. Combine a can of condensed cream of spinach soup, with one can of cream of chicken soup and then gradually stir in an equal quantity of water. Heat thoroughly. It makes four big bowlfuls.

With it serve Chili Cheese Toast. This you make by mixing together ½ a cup of pimiento cheese spread, a ¼ cup of peanut butter and 1 tablespoon of chili sauce. Spread it between two slices of hot toast. Make a lot because your hungry young-ones will howl for more. You can keep the makings of this next impromptu special on your pantry shelf for days when you are in a hurry. It's called Shrimp Gumbo.

You make it by combining a can of condensed vegetable soup (which has been diluted with an ounce can of drained shrimp and ½ cup milk. Stir it all together, heat thoroughly and serve at once. Steamed brown bread sandwiches are the ideal accompaniment. Use the canned brown bread, slice it thin and spread with butter or margarine.

Skirts started sliding back toward the knees in 1948—though they were still long.

A look around indicates that Congress isn't the only group that's handicapped by arbitrary "rules".

Of course, after all, it takes only three ciphers to change a million to a billion—and what are a few ciphers among so many.

According to the President, the inflationary situation is now "stable", and it may be hoped that the door will be locked before any more horses are stolen.

Consider the Budget, How It Grows

LEAVE IT to the analysts, the economists and the "experts" to ponder, and to express views on the immensity of President Truman's budget proposals and the practicability of some of the ideas he presents for congressional action.

The astronomical total of $41,858,000,000 is too great for comprehension by even those whose mathematical attainments are above average, and it may be that President Truman himself, with his background of unsuccessful haberdashery experience, may be a little awed by the enormity of such figures.

It need also be taken into account that even this record high in proposed government expenditures for the fiscal year starting next July 1, does not cover all anticipated costs, as the President omitted items designed to provide for the rearming of western Europe, promised for later in the year.

Further, is the warning that future budgets will have to be even bigger, to meet America's mounting responsibility in the world and to pay the bill for a greatly expanded military establishment at home.

It is noted that approximately half of the budget total centers around activities associated with the so-called "cold war" induced by Russia's interference with United Nations objectives in Europe and the Far East, and the extent to which further financial obligations may be deemed necessary in this behalf can only be guessed.

Despite high costs of foreign commitments, however, the President is pursuing a determined course in matters having to do with various domestic "social reforms" included in his campaign pledges, and to do all of these things he finds it necessary to advise enactment of legislation to bring in somewhat more than six billion dollars in additional taxes, of which approximately two billion would come from increased payroll levies to finance a broadened social security program, and the other four billions largely from corporation profits, with an occasional touch on individuals in the higher income brackets.

A bit-by-bit elaboration of the President's budget requests may be expected as further study is given to the huge total of 30,000 words required to convey the message to Congress.

Governor Lausche Reveals Aspirations

THERE IS SOMETHING appealing in the earnestness with which Governor Frank J. Lausche re-enters upon what he envisions as an opportunity to direct the course of a great state along lines which will be beneficial to all who live within its bounds.

No better example of what is called a "self-made man" comes to mind than that of this son of Slovenian immigrant parents. Born and reared in Cleveland, Frank J. Lausche, at the age of 13, became the main support of his widowed mother and six brothers and sisters. The story of his early activities, his determination to get an education in law, and his rise in politics makes a fascinating story.

And in that story can be found the elements which now provide a driving force toward accomplishment of such objectives as were touched upon in Governor Lausche's inaugural address yesterday:

"I look to the day when our state government has truly risen to the challenge of adequately protecting all her people against the hazards of unemployment, of disability and of old age . . . and while we must liberalize those beneficent laws to keep pace with the increased cost of living, IT IS IMPERATIVE THAT WE GUARD AGAINST ALL LEGISLATION WHICH WILL INDUCE INDOLENCE AND MAKE IT PROFITABLE NOT TO WORK."

Those final words are given special emphasis for the reason that they indicate recognition by Governor Lausche of an apparently growing trend toward dependence on government support rather than individual effort.

Equally impressive is Governor Lausche's aspiration: "I envision the time when the hideous slums which paralyze our growth are torn down, and our cities rebuilt to be more useful and more beautiful. . . . Let us also envision the day when the lawless exploiter of the poor will be driven from our state, when law and order are supreme."

It is noteworthy, however, that the present course of Ohio government is to "keep within the limits of monies that are available," rather than to impose new taxes, which is a far cry from the federal course of programming idealistic objectives and calling for more taxes to meet the costs.

Socialism and Communism Differ

SOCIALISTS and communists are not the same, as some persons seem to believe, but are actually at swords' points. The Italian Socialist party, headed by Pietro Nenni, has been told by the Committee of International Socialist Conferences to quit playing with the communists or get out. Nenni's group, the committee says, has failed to understand the "fundamental incompatibility of democratic socialism and totalitarian communism."

This is another way of saying that the two movements are enemies. In fact, whenever the communists have attained power, the first group which they have liquidated is the socialists.

It appears that the Truman inauguration festivities are to last three days—with likelihood that some attendants will have only a vague recollection of some of the later happenings.

Word comes that calendar-makers are already busy on the 1950 output—if you need a little cheering up.

What Some Other People Are Saying

SEN. PEPPER (D) Fla.: "I hope and believe President Truman will make a new attempt to find means of getting along with Russia."

E. H. LITCHFIELD, director of the U. S. military government's civil administration branch: "Every indication points to a significant decrease in communist influence and power in Western Germany. Total communist strength is now only five per cent."

* * *

SEN. WHERRY (R) Neb.: "I have not changed my mind about Mr. Acheson. I shall await the committee hearings and report before deciding my course. I opposed his confirmation as undersecretary a few years ago."

Raymond Moley's Analysis

'Nose-Under-the-Tent' Method Pursued

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S proposal that the government take preliminary steps toward entering the steel industry is in the pattern of one of the oldest political and bureaucratic tricks in history.

It might be called the nose-under-the-tent tactic. It involves, first, a "survey," then a small appropriation; later a bigger one to justify the earlier moves; and finally unending expenditures, expansion and monopoly.

The presidential budget will be full of such seedlings, none of them so startling and portentious as the steel adventure, but ultimately costly and injurious.

Congressmen, encouraged by government bureaus, get small authorizations for "surveys" of such projects as river improvements. These are hidden in the jungle of budgetary figures. Next year there will be more. Good money goes after bad—endlessly.

Enough has been said in opposition to the President's steel proposal to demonstrate why it is unnecessary. That point hardly needs to be argued. But when a political move is encountered, rational argument is not very effective.

What has happened is that under the pressure of socialistic labor leaders one of the oldest of New Deal contentions has been given form and substance. It has always been a favorite theory of a group of business critics, including several of the New Deal Harvard law school boys, that the steel industry has pursued an economy of scarcity.

History Repeating.

Early in the war this issue arose, and the noted engineer, Gano Dunn, made a report for President Roosevelt denying the contention of those who wanted large additions to steel capacity.

The Dunn report slowed down the efforts to put government into the steel business but did not check them completely. Large loans were floated for additional steel capacity and, as everyone knows, the government after the war disposed of large holdings.

The facts again make it hard to see any reason other than political and ideological ones in reviving the idea now.

Since the President in his campaign suggested that his opponent, like Hitler in prewar Germany, was dominated by selfish businessmen, it may be pertinent to suggest another parallel.

In 1936, Herman Goering, in order more adequately to arm Germany, urged the German steel industry to double its capacity. The industry, under the leadership of Fritz Thyssen, refused to do so.

Thereupon Germany built the world's largest government steel plant, the Herman Goering Werke. It also drove Thyssen from the leadership of the industry and forced him into exile. From that point on the non-Goering part of the industry was in effect nationalized.

In the parliamentary debates on the question of nationalizing steel in Britain, it always seemed to be assumed by Cripps and others that government and government alone should determine whether the public was adequately served. This assumption was strongly contested by opponents of nationalization, but without avail. The same assumption seems to prevail in the Truman proposal.

But in this case public opinion will play a larger part. None of the charges of inefficiency and neglect which prevailed in Britain can be successfully made here.

The American steel industry is progressive and efficient far beyond the dreams of British socialism. As this becomes known, the Truman threat can hardly be effective in Congress.

Looking Back

Twenty Years Ago Today

Friday, Jan. 11, 1929.

Chief of Police McClure reported that arrests in Mansfield in 1928 totaled 2,628, and that of 88 automobiles reported stolen, 80 had been recovered.

Patrolman William R. Boals died in General hospital after illness with pneumonia.

Roy R. Colwell was elected president of Mansfield Driving club and plans were made for 1929 racing season.

City Solicitor R. W. Stephenson recommended that third floor of city building be completed soon for occupancy by municipal court.

Benjamin Boock, 87, died at his home, 126 First street.

Tom Mix in "Son of the Golden West" was screen attraction at the Ritz.

Florida strawberries were for sale in Mansfield markets at 80 cents a pint.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On January 11, 1805, the Michigan and Indiana territories were separated. The state of Michigan was formed from a part of Indiana.

Dave Boone Says:

THE MORE messages you hear loaded with the things that must be done for us by the government if we are to continue to get along, the more you wonder how Americans ever managed to clear a wilderness and build this great nation on their own.

* * *

It almost seems as if the early settlers must have had government guarantees that the Indians wouldn't touch 'em, that their trades would be cleared by federal boards and that there would be government control of the roads.

* * *

Yet it wasn't so many years ago that all a man expected Washington to give him was free garden seeds every April.

* * *

I ain't saying that in this complex, dizzy and well-muddled civilization a government shouldn't help its people to happiness and security—but I can't help wondering if a proper consideration is being shown for the bottom of the barrel.

The Nation Today

Taking a Look Ahead

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — I have a terrifying piece of paper in my desk.

At a quick glance it looks like something put together by a drunk. But it wasn't.

Across the middle of the paper, which is about one yard long and nine inches deep, runs a straight line.

And below the line, as if the peaks were being reflected in water, is another row of hills and peaks, upside down.

All this was carefully done by business experts.

Those hills and peaks above and below the line represent the history of American ups and downs. They're the periods of prosperity and the periods of panics and depressions.

The chart begins in 1790 and ends in 1945. It's amazing to see how many prosperity peaks there are above the line—and how many depression dips below.

The last figure on the chart is the huge prosperity peak that started climbing in 1940. We know that this peak, although the chart stops in 1945, is still high above the middle line.

But—will that great prosperity peak, greatest in history, crumble any time soon and dip into a huge upside down peak, below the line?

It's that question which went to the heart of President Truman's message to Congress last week.

In his State of the Union message on Wednesday, Mr. Truman said:

"I am happy to report . . . that the State of the Union is good." But he added:

"We cannot afford to float along carelessly on a postwar boom until it collapses."

Then he outlined his program for 1949. And Friday, in his economic report, he said "We have not been granted lasting prosperity without further effort and vigilance."

And once again, for the second time in three days, he outlined his program, but this time in more detail. And he ended with:

"This is a period in which our ability to master our affairs in our own way will be rigorously tested."

* * *

Quite Different Now.

ABOVE I said the chart of the history of American booms and busts was a terrifying sight. It is, and for this reason:

At every other period in our history we were more or less isolated from the rest of the world.

When we well on our faces, we had time to pick ourselves up off the floor leisurely and get started upward again.

There was no danger to us if other countries collapsed at the same time or even collapsed because we collapsed.

It was pretty much all right for us, we were safe, every time it happened—up till now. But now it's different.

If we skid down into a depression, our friends in the world, Western Europe and Latin America, will almost surely go plunging down into poverty and maybe revolution.

And—a collapse for us is just what the Russians are banking on. It's the kind of thing on which they've built their thinking and their ambitions.

For now, if we collapse, it will be unlike any other time in our history. This time communism will try to run over the world, including us.

We could almost afford depressions before, when we felt safe in the world. We can't now. The next one might be fatal for us.

French 'Thank You' Train Leaves Paris

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The French Merci Train, in thanks for the Friendship Train, is now being loaded at the port of Le Havre onto the SS Magellan en route to the United States. Here is the description of the train's departure from Paris as given by Leon Pearson over NBC:

"A freight train of 49 cars loaded with the hearts of a million Frenchmen pulled out of Paris this morning bound for Le Havre and New York.

"Before its journey is ended that train will have reached every state in the U. S. and its spirit will have touched the entire country — 49 cars, one for each state, plus the District of Columbia."

"I walked the whole length of that train this morning before the ceremonies and the speechmaking began and marveled at the way the French railway workers, who are principally responsible for this gratitude train, have repainted and decorated those old boxcars that every American doughboy knew so well.

"The railroad cars are packed even tighter than when they carried eight horses or forty soldiers to the battlefields of Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood. They are packed with paintings of the old masters, with sculpture and with historic documents. They are packed with elegant gowns made by the French designers of fashion, with fancy work and lace and embroidery, with hand-painted china and porcelain, and with thousands of dolls from the children of France to the children of the USA.

"More than 50,000 different objects — the gifts of a million Frenchmen, ranging from the President of the French Republic down to the poor little girl whose doll didn't have any hair, so she cut off some of her own to make her gift presentable for the gratitude train. The train is due in Le Havre this evening where the cars — for the cars as well as the contents are a gift—will be loaded on the SS Magellan for New York."

Friend of Labor Irked.

NOW that the Democrats are running things on Capitol Hill, organized labor should be careful not to antagonize the public the way the National Association of Manufacturers did in the 80th Congress.

The American people are quick to resent strong-arm tactics by any group, and one pro-labor senator, Utah's deep-thinking Elbert Thomas, chairman of the Senate labor committee, is already resentful.

What burned Thomas up was an attempt by his labor friends to dictate membership on his committee. When labor lobbyists went so far as to tell Thomas whom to hire and fire on his staff, Thomas, usually a gentle Utahn, got his dander up.

Thomas wanted to keep Senator Irving Ives, New York Republican, on his committee to give the new labor program a bipartisan approach. It was Ives, when the Taft-Hartley bill first came up, who helped Thomas override it inside the committee, and forced Taft to carry the fight to the Senate floor. In the end, Ives voted for the Taft-Hartley Act, so labor last week objected to keeping him on the labor committee. Other Democrats sided with labor and Thomas was overruled. Ives retired.

However, Thomas put his foot down when labor friends tried to stack his committee staff. No senator has been a better friend to labor than the senator from Utah, so he decided he could be trusted to employ a fair staff.

Real Estate Lobby.

THE real estate lobby will fire its first salvo of the new year on Wednesday when it plays host to some 200 congressmen. The affair is slated to be held in the presidential room of Washington's Hotel Statler and is officially labeled as purely social.

The lobby's real purpose, however, is to meet the new congressmen and to lay the groundwork for selling them on the "evils" of rent control and public housing.

Every step in this sales technique has been carefully planned to give the appearance of a home-town social. There'll be no long-winded speeches and no cocktails. The congressmen will hear only off-hand references to the long-range housing and slum-clearance projects—the lobby's real targets. To add to the folksy atmosphere, the lobby has arranged for each congressman to receive the invitation from one of his own constituents — an invitation that is difficult to turn down.

Taft Eyed Foreign Affairs.

SIGNIFICANTLY, the Republican who protested loudest backstage over the Democrats increasing their majority on the Senate foreign relations committee was Senator Taft.

It was commonly supposed that Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse would get the Republican vacancy on the foreign relations committee if the Democrats hadn't taken that extra seat for themselves. But privately Senator Taft had his eye on it, too.

When he got the news that the Democrats had decided to absorb the vacancy by increasing their own majority eight to five, Taft stormed over to Democratic National Chairman Howard McGrath.

"The boys don't like this," exploded the forthright Senator from Ohio.

The Senator from Rhode Island simply shrugged.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

THERE is some doubt that 10 government steel mills can be completed next year in time to care for last year's demands for automobiles.

* * *

Some seem to feel that we cannot afford to support government steel plants until released from our agreement to support Britain's.

* * *

On the other hand government steel plants would mean that we can get our next WPA shovels wholesale.

* * *

And this would be a good time to build new plants at taxpayers' expense . . . We just got through selling off the war-built plants for peanuts.

* * *

But so far Mr. Truman has been considerate of the new Congress . . . in asking for four billion new revenue he left it to the boys to figure how to get it.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"You may be from the tax bureau but you'll never find out how much money my husband makes . . . I've been trying for the last twenty years."

Better Be a Lover of Dogs If You're a Guest at Malabar

MALABAR FARM — Malabar Farm is the one home in the nation where both family and house guests are lucky to lead a dog's life.

No dogs ever had it so good as Louis Bromfield's four boxers, Mrs. Bromfield's cocker spaniel and Ellen Bromfield's border collie (because his ancestry obviously borders on everything).

Mr. B. who is slightly "teched in the haid" about dogs, has built one of the most luxurious dog houses in America. It consists of the handsome 20-room manse (six baths) in which the family and guests are tolerated by the dogs.

Heaven help the novice guest who expects the dogs to get up and give him the best chairs or sofas in the living room! The dogs do it with grace and good nature, but the master finds such guests intolerable boors unfit for civilized society or a return invitation to Malabar.

Inexperienced guests are sometimes disconcerted, too, by the fact that the boxers, average 70 pounds, operate in the house under the impression they are lap dogs.

But guests who hope for a return visit had better pin on their pans a look of unalloyed joy when Folly, Rex and Baby simultaneously start scrambling into his lap.

Of course, there are guests who, under the circumstances, don't want to come back. This is apt to include individuals who have been brought up under the impression that a dog's place is not in the dining room.

But since the dogs accompany Mr. B everyplace, they also come to table. Usually they lie placidly under the table on the feet of the master and the guests.

However, if one of the dogs gets restless, he is apt to put his head in the diner's lap. This can be an unnerving experience to the uninitiated. Boxers are born with morose and misanthropic faces and age does not improve the expression.

When a Boxer "Smiles."

FURTHERMORE, boxers — at least the Bromfield boxers — when pleased with life are apt to smile winsomely at people. Some people can take it; some can't. For when a boxer smiles, he hooks his upper lip just behind the middle eight incisors or molars in his lower jaw.

This imparts to the boxer a lean, a hungry—and in the eyes of the nervous—a mean look. I have seen timid folk at Malabar feed their entire dinners surreptiously to one of the boxers under the impression that this look indicated intense hunger and dislike instead of devoted friendship.

Rex, the youngest, biggest and handsomest of the four has just conferred new honors on the clan Bromfield. He has posed as the first dog of distinction. When his master refused to pose as a "Man of Distinction," clutching a whisky glass in his hand, the advertising firm settled for Rex.

Since Rex is a good natured dog and I do not wish to put the WCTU on his tail, I hasten to add that he is addicted only to milk and has worn a white ribbon since birth.

Oddly enough, the boxers being up the question: What is the ideal garb for a Malabar visitor? I have given this considerable thought over the years and have come to the conclusion that the perfect raiment winter or summer, hot or cold, for man, woman or child, is a sou'wester or slicker.

This has to do with the boxers. They are the droolingest dogs ever invented. Since one lives in such intimate contact with boxers at Malabar, something water-proof is the best bet for steady, round-the-clock wear.

Visitors, especially the arty ones and interior decorators, never fail to remark on the "lived in" look the house has acquired in only ten years of residence. It may take a heap o 'livin' in other communities to make a house a home but at the Bromfield's a pack of boxers can age one in the wood faster than any other force known to man.

Farmer's Diary

It Turned Out a Draw

By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT RAINED for two days, and a woodchuck was driven out of his winter home by rising water. He lumbered uphill in a kind of daze, hoping to take refuge with some of his kinfolk along the ridges. Just as he mounted the road bank, along I came with Skipper at my heels. Skipper is a black spaniel who considers marmots his best enemies.

He became excited, barked, sniffed about the wide open burrow toward which the sleepy rock-chuck was waltzing. Then they glared into each other's faces and Skipper braced his feet, blocking the entrance to the fugitive's prospective shelter.

Chucky walked up, pronto! He was a big fellow, more than two feet long, and he packed a wallop that stood off the excited dog. For 15 minutes they sparred and boxed and tumbled. Twice the groundhog nearly reached the place of shelter, but both times Skipper grabbed him by the loose skin of his body and dragged him back. The dog's nose was scratched and bleeding, the chuck had a trembling, tousled look, but he bristled bloodily and kept at it.

I had sat down on a convenient stump to watch.

Both dog and marmot appeared exhausted. They had stopped to rest, the black bloody nose of one between his paws, the brown bloody nose of the other deep in the fur of his side. Only two watchful eyes glared at his tormentor.

Slyly, he squirmed and writhed a few inches toward the burrow. Then he feigned sleep, or became too tired to move farther. The day was cold. The wind blew his fur, carrying the scent of him away from the tired old dog.

I stirred my feet. I was cold, myself. The dog turned his head inquiringly in my direction. At that instant Woody-the-Chuck gave a squirm and a slither and slid safely into the yawning back door of Woodchuck Haven.

Skipper yawned widely, then came up to me wagging his tail, imploring to go home. He seemed to say that he had had a good workout and would cinch the bout next summer.

Back in the tunnel where Mrs. Marmot still slept, waiting for quadruplets in March, I had no doubt Old Marmot was settling himself comfortably until Groundhog Day.

Skipper and I went on home.

Area Girl Wins Grange Essay Honor

Takes 4th Place In National Event

BUCYRUS — Arlene Stuckman, 11, a sixth grade pupil at nearby Mt. Zion rural school, is the winner of fourth place in a national essay contest conducted by the National Grange.

Arlene's essay on "How to be a Good Neighbor" won her fourth place in the state contest and first prize in Crawford county before being submitted for national competition.

In her essay, the young Crawford county grange member stressed the need of fair play at home and in school as the basis for developing good neighbors.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Park Stuckman, Arlene has been active in the Juvenile Grange at Mt. Zion since she was five years old. Her parents, who are charter members of the Mt. Zion Grange, have been active in grange work 20 years.

Whetstone Grange has received honorable mention from the state grange for its community service program, L. Paul Auck, Bucyrus, new county grange deputy, reported today. The chapter installed fluorescent lights in the Whetstone school and also landscaped the school lawn.

Armed Forces Belittle Bomb

NEWARK, N. J.—(INS)—Sumner Pike, vice-chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, asserted today that attempts to belittle the atomic bomb has arisen in part from unification of the armed services.

Pike told a dinner of the North Jersey section of the American Chemical society that each of the services is trying to retain as much importance as possible and fears that the public may get the impression that the A-bomb is all the nation needs for military preparedness.

He said that the tendency, therefore, is to play down the importance of the atom bomb.

Mansfielders Play Major Role In Inauguration

in a downtown hotel, Richland county voters showed an appreciable influence as they made Mansfield's weight felt.

ARRIVE EARLY

Arriving early Monday morning for the full round of activity were Mrs. George Biddle, Mrs. George Marks, Mrs. Roy Webber, Mrs. Aneita Davidson, Mrs. Sarah Ford and Mrs. George Bell, all active members of the Dolly Madison club.

Clifford L. Mitchell, state representative, was joined by Mrs. Mitchell, who came down from Mansfield for the inaugural events.

Seen in the Columbus hotel lobbies early Monday were Walter Shafer, Rex Small, Guy Stewart, Walter Underwood, C. E. Ennis, W. E. Darling, Charles Wheeler, Clarence Tugend and Leland Darling.

There wasn't a floor at the Neil House, headquarters for the inaugural delegation, that failed to produce a familiar face from Richland county. Each county in the state had one or more suites for holding open house.

Informality reigned for the 24-hour period which began Sunday evening and continued into the wee hours today.

Stout-hearted Richland countians were discouraged when the rain kept falling steadily as time drew near for the ceremony at noon. The local group went to the historic state building and there waited until the entire ceremony and reception were over.

The governor-elect and Mrs. Lausche received only the press, state officers and their wives and visiting dignitaries preceding the inaugural.

Mrs. Lausche wore a cocoa colored crepe frock, black off-the-face felt hat with jeweled clip and a black persian lamb coat with black accessories. On her shoulder was a large orchid.

Her first words of greeting to Mansfield press was inquiry about her friends here who had helped in electing her husband. She referred to the visit she made here last summer at a picnic meeting of the Dolly Madison club, when she was a guest of honor.

Mrs. Thomas J. Herbert, who has been Ohio's First Lady for the past year, was also receiving friends in the state office. She was attired in a gray wool suit and wore a short mink coat, brown felt hat with gray plume and brown accessories. She too wore a purple orchid.

Back to the hotels, after being shoved and pushed in the large crowd at the state house, the Mansfielders rushed to dress for the reception from 4 to 6 at the Governor's Mansion.

WAIT IN DRIZZLE

Upon arriving, there was a 30 minute wait in line in the steady drizzle as more than 1500 women tried to get in to greet Ohio's new First Lady. Receiving with Mrs. Lausche was Mrs. Richard S. Wolfe, Columbus, who was reception chairman. Mrs. Lausche had changed to an ashes of roses lace frock, trimmed at the neck with a matching satin bow. Hatless, she wore a gardenia corsage at that time.

One had to be impressed by Mrs. Lausche, who so charmingly opened her home to the public, after gruelling open reception at the state house following the inauguration.

Women from all over the state filed through the governor's mansion and shook the hand of Mrs. Lausche. Later they were served punch and cookies. Mrs. James Rhodes, wife of the mayor of Columbus, and Mrs. George Nye, presided.

Practically every woman in attendance wore a feathered hat and orchid.

In the evening real festivities began at 10 p. m. when the inaugural ball was given by the Young Democratic Club of Ohio in the ballroom of the Neil House.

Thousands jammed into the two large rooms to pay tribute to the Governor and First Lady.

For the ball Mrs. Lausche wore an ivory satin brocade evening gown with short sleeves, banded in brown ermine. Pearls and a jeweled clip accented the sweetheart neckline.

Later as dancing finally became possible, more and more Mansfielders were in evidence. Howard Sword and Russell Moore had driven down for the ball. Also seen were Walter Rusk and his wife, wearing a blue satin formal for the occasion.

Mrs. George Davis, president of the Dolly Madison club, wore a black crepe dinner dress with jeweled clip, and Mrs. George Biddle was also attired in a black frock with sequin trimming. Mrs. George Marks wore black with sheer yoke and sequin trim and Mrs. Roy Webber chose a cocoa brown crepe. Mrs. Clifford Mitchell was also in black.

Miss Juanita Neal and Mrs. C. M. Ross were also Mansfield guests for the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Hale had arrived early in the day for the festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. George Conner were among the dancers. Mrs. Conner wore a black crepe frock of street length.

Club Sees Movies

Movies will be shown at the Mansfield Lions club meeting Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. President James W. Miller announced that, starting with the Jan. 26 meeting the plan of having two or three members participate in the program will be resumed.

Drivers Get Stiff Fines

Four traffic law violators, including two who drove while under the influence of alcohol, were fined a total of $485 in municipal court today.
